United Negro College Fund Special Programs Corporation

April 14-15, 2005

United Negro College Fund Special Programs CORPORATION

Mission

Support the educational needs of Minority Serving Institutions through comprehensive research and development programs and contract and grant opportunities.

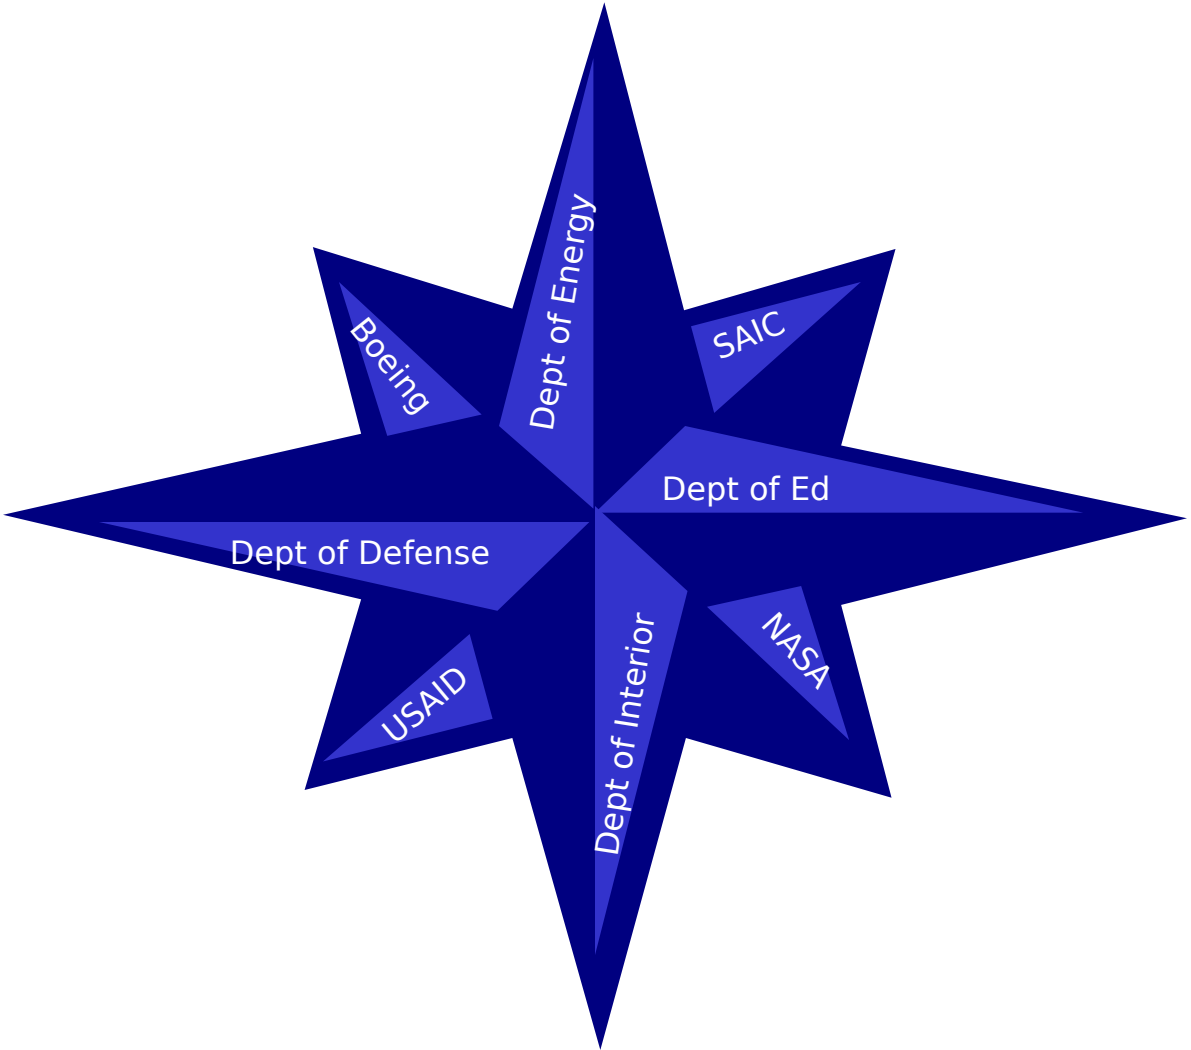
About UNCFSP

- Proven track record of outstanding work
- A diverse organization focused on assisting minority serving institutions
- Uniquely designed to assist all minority institutions and students both nationally and internationally
- UNCFSP is a spin-off of the United Negro College Fund
- A separate non-profit corporation with its own President/CEO and Board of Directors.

UNCFSP Goals

- To build relationships and create partnerships with government, business & industry and other organizations
- To create opportunities and provide resources to support the initiatives of minority colleges and universities in meeting their objectives
- To advance and communicate and understanding of government agencies and our business partners

Our Partners



Our Constituents

Department of Education Annual Minority Institution List

Strategic Added Value

- Research facilities and dedicated campus resources to participate in DoD projects:
  - North Carolina A&T State University supporting the Army Research Office nano-composites project developing lighter, durable and survivable material
  - Norfolk State University developing a research and innovations empowerment campus (RISE) for applied research and technological innovations
  - Delaware State University supporting the state's Department of Homeland Security emergency preparedness project

Business Partnerships and Alliances

- Alabama A&M State University partnering with SAIC and Boeing on contracts with the Army Missile & Space Command
- Bowie State University in conjunction with Apple Computer has a super computer to support the development of high-end graphics, animation and complex computations
- UNCFSP HBCU/MI Alliance partnering with SAIC on the DoD Guardian contract to develop and install first responder technology
- UNCFSP HBCU/MI Alliance partnering with the University of Pittsburgh for a Department of Homeland Security solicitation to create a Center for Event Preparedness and Response

Added Benefits

- Established relationships with federal agencies and business and industry partners
- Collaborative efforts and teaming agreements with majority institutions
- Centers of excellence funded by federal agencies targeting science, math, engineering and technology advances
- Partnerships with National Laboratories
- State of the art research facilities

Added Benefits con't

- Engaged and encouraged faculty with advance degrees and business experience
- Talented students to participate in internship opportunities and support workforce development requirements
- Established 501 (c) 3 non-profit organizations that serve as the contracting arm of the institutions
- Secured facilities and personnel to support classified contracts
- Cost accounting infrastructure to handle tasks orders

UNCFSP Support

- Serve as a clearing house to the federal government and business partners to connect the best institution with the customer requirements
- Information technology infrastructure to link institutions with opportunities
- Successful project management experience to manage contracts and grants
- Conduct technical assistance workshops to teach contract management strategies and research institute development

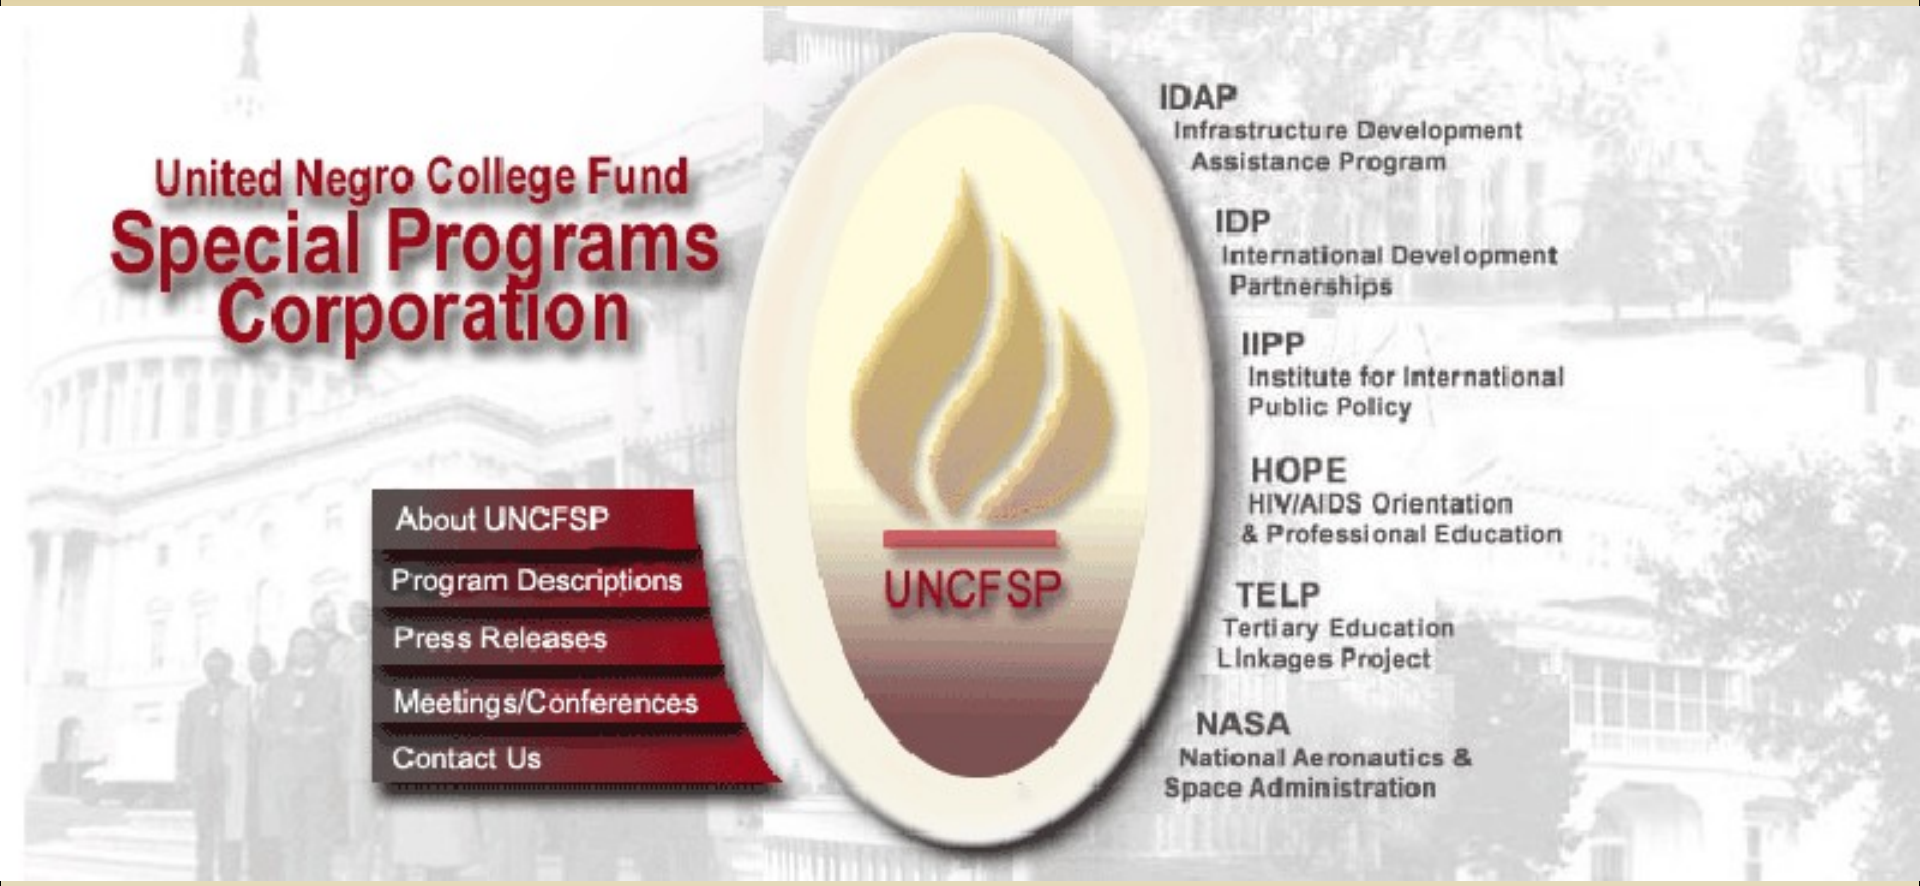
Contact Information

Blair Alexander

Director of Institutional Development & Contracting Services, UNCFSP

703-205-7631

blair.alexander@uncfsp.org



www.uncfsp.org